L’Amministrazione Carter e il dissenso in Urss*, 2013, and a number of articles in Italian and English. He is currently working on the European Parliament during the 1970s and the introduction of direct elections in the Community.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contemporary European History covers the history of eastern and western Europe, including the United Kingdom, from 1918 to the present. By combining a wide geographical compass with a relatively short time span, the journal achieves both range and depth. It is open to all forms of historical enquiry – including cultural, economic, international, political and social approaches – and welcomes comparative and transnational analysis.

Submissions

Authors wishing to submit articles for publication should do so through the journal's online submissions system at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/conteurohistory>.

Articles should normally be about 8,000 words long, the total to include footnotes. Review articles should not exceed 5,000 words.

The journal is published in English, and contributions are normally submitted in that language; however, we will also consider articles submitted in other major European languages. If accepted for publication, these will be translated. All articles, including those commissioned, will be refereed.

An abstract of each article is published in English, French and German.

Submission of a paper will be taken to imply that it is unpublished and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. On acceptance of a paper, the author will be asked to assign copyright (on certain conditions) to Cambridge University Press. An article cannot be published unless a signed copyright form is returned promptly.

Contributors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce any material in which they do not hold copyright and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgements are included in their text.

The editors would be grateful if contributors kept closely to the journal's stylistic conventions. Copy-editing is time-consuming and the editors will return any contribution which does not follow the conventions for correction and re-typing.

Prospective authors should refer to the full set of Instruction for Contributors by following the link at <http://www.journals.cambridge.org/ceh>

Contributors of accepted papers will be expected to submit a final version which should include

1. the text, which should begin with the title, the author's name and email and postal address, and the author's affiliation as he/she should wish it to appear
2. a 100-word summary of the article in English, French or German
3. a short title for use as a running page-head
4. a statement of the article's length in number of words (including both text and footnotes), and a list of tables, graphs, maps and any other illustrative material (each of which should be supplied as a separate file)
5. a short biographical note with a description of work in progress and previously published work (130 words max.)
